Stephen J. Johnson
Management Systems Specialist
Dept. 626 – Program Finance
Years at EB – 12 Years

Most recently, Steve served as an Assistant Treasurer for EBMA. One lesson he has learned by becoming involved with the EBMA Finance Board is that money is simply a motivational tool to be used to encourage people to perform amazing things and accomplish their goals.

As a Management Systems Specialist, his responsibilities include delivering manpower planning material and providing comprehensive labor analysis to senior-level managers of all business functions in order to forecast & facilitate adequate staffing-level needs. Regularly, Steve produces Labor Resource Planning performance reports and fishnet forecasts. Professional experience includes being a Sales Agent at GrayBar in Boston, a Management System Analyst for Computer Sciences Corporation, and principal owner of a construction company. His independent construction business employed eight people. The firm's core business operation focused on commercial construction and residential renovation.

Steve holds a Bachelor of Science from Norwich University in Computer Information Systems and has completed graduate courses at the Rabb School of Continuing Studies at Brandeis University in Project Management. He has a Masters in System Engineering from Worcester Polytechnic Institute. Steve is currently serving on the Boards of the Noank Historical Society and American Production and Inventory Control Society, (APICS) while performing financial duties.

Fun Fact: Recently, Steve went dog-sledding and visited an ice hotel in Canada and enjoyed cold beverages served in glasses made out of ice.
